Equality and Diversity Policy

The Equality Act 2010 replaced all previous equality legislation such as the Race Relations Act, Disability Discrimination Act and Sex Discrimination Act. It also provides some changes about which schools need to be aware.

The Equality Act 2010 provides a single, consolidated source of discrimination law, covering all the types of discrimination that are unlawful. It simplifies the law by removing anomalies and inconsistencies that had developed over time in the existing legislation, and it extends the protection from discrimination in certain areas.

As far as schools are concerned, for the most part, the effect of the new law is the same as it has been in the past – meaning that schools cannot unlawfully discriminate against pupils because of their sex, race, disability, religion or belief and sexual orientation. Protection is now extended to pupils who are pregnant or undergoing gender reassignment. However, schools that are already complying with the law should not find major differences in what they need to do.

The exceptions to the discrimination provisions for schools that existed under previous legislation – such as the content of the curriculum, collective worship and admissions to single-sex schools and schools of a religious character, are all replicated in the new act. However, there are some changes that will have an impact on schools as follows:

- Introduction of a new single equality duty to replace the previous three separate duties. This includes new specific duties which are less bureaucratic and more light-touch than previous duties, requiring schools to publish equality information and objectives. Initially this must be done by 5 April 2012, and then periodically updated (chapter 5 of the guidance below gives full details).
- It is now unlawful for employers to ask health-related questions of applicants before job offer, unless the questions are specifically related to an intrinsic function of the work. This means that schools should no longer, as a matter of course, require job applicants to complete a generic health questionnaire as part of the application procedure. Schools are advised to review their existing practices to ensure they are complying with both the Health Standards Regulations and Section 60 of the Equality Act.
- It is now unlawful to discriminate against a transgender pupil.
- It is now unlawful to discriminate against a pupil who is pregnant or has recently had a baby.
- New Positive Action provisions will allow schools to target measures that are designed to alleviate disadvantages experienced by, or to meet the particular needs of, pupils with particular protected characteristics. Such measures will need to be a proportionate way of achieving the relevant aim – for example providing special catch-up classes for Roma children or a project to engage specifically with alienated Asian boys.

Extending the reasonable adjustment duty to require schools to provide auxiliary aids and services to disabled pupils. Following the recent consultation on implementation and approach, this duty was introduced in September 2012.

Policy Planning and Review

Whilst we have a duty to develop and publish equality schemes in relation to both gender and disability, we at Wellington School are considering all aspects of diversity and equality in this comprehensive policy.

Policy planning and development

In the planning and development stage of policy-making, we will ensure we have consulted and taken into account stakeholder views.

All improvement plans will be designed with an element of impact assessment built in to monitor the success of each activity.

There will be a systematic review of the impact of all policies and procedures on equality and diversity to address any areas of inequality.

Our target-setting processes ensure appropriate, challenging targets are set in relation to identifiable groups as well as individual students / cohorts.

Monitoring and Quality Assurance

Each student's progress is monitored and tracked. The resulting data is analysed in respect of gender, race, ability or additional needs, looked-after status.

In addition to monitoring to rule out any potential disadvantage, quality assurance procedures ensure the school meets its duty to positively promote diversity. (e.g. lesson observations record evidence of differentiation and texts are reviewed to ensure appropriateness and inclusivity.)

The data collected is used to inform further school planning, target-setting and decision-making.

Summary of Audit

Present Position

- All ground floor areas of the School including the School grounds, are accessible to all parents, pupils, carers and the wider public (over 75% of the School accommodation is at ground level).
- First Floor areas of the School are not accessible to those individuals who need a wheelchair or who are unable to negotiate stairs safely.
- All classrooms, Halls and Offices are accessible to wheelchair users.
- Wellington has one Boys' disabled toilet in the Vale Building and one disabled toilet for girls in the Moss Building.
- There is no particular provision for individuals who have sight or hearing issues.
- All pupils are able to access the whole curriculum by careful deployment of specialist accommodation and suiting of Department rooms.

Future Requirements

- Over time, four lifts, one for each of our buildings with a first floor needs to be installed. (The School is presently not in a position to fund that development).
- Facilities for individuals with sight or hearing issues will need to be considered if the need arises.
- Develop in the School's Halls and Sport facilities, technology to support individuals with sight and hearing issues, should the need arise.

Accessibility Plan

Wellington School as a non selective school is open to all pupils who meet the Schools' admissions criteria. No pupil is prevented from attending the school because of problems with physical disability. Access to and around the school site is possible for wheelchair bound individuals.

However, a small number of first floor classes on the Wellington site are not available to wheelchair bound individuals.

Wellington has endeavoured to provide a classroom for all subjects in the National Curriculum on the ground floor of each building to allow pupils with movement issues access to the whole school curriculum.

Further all halls, toilets and sports facilities are available on the ground floor including our Sixth Form areas.

All meetings with parents and visitors are also held in halls and offices on the ground floor where access is available to all individuals.

There is a designated disabled driver parking space close to the main reception area.
