We are delighted the school has done so much to ensure our son has felt welcome, settled and happy to learn. Wellington clearly has an understanding, empathetic, caring and positive management team and this filters down to the pupils.

Welcome to Wellington School

Unusually, I find myself writing the introduction to this year's prospectus at the end of a rather interesting summer term. Ordinarily, I would have put pen to paper several weeks ago in preparation for Open Morning, but, sadly, we were unable to welcome you through the gates on this occasion and, furthermore, highly unlike you will be able to sample the delights of Wellington prior to the submission of your secondary school preference form. I do hope this prospectus, the website, our annual Newsletter, my weekly blog/vlog, the School's reputation and 'the word on the street' will suffice to reassure you that Wellington is undoubtedly the right environment for your son or daughter regardless of their background, needs, interests or talents.

It has become a bit of a cliché to say we are in 'unprecedented times' and indeed the uncertainty of the last few months has not been without its challenges and this, I'm sure, is set to continue for some time. I could not, however, have been more pleased with and proud of the response of the Wellington Community. Perhaps you should consider yourselves quite fortunate in swerving the bullet that is my 25-minute talk at Open Morning, but had you been subjected to this rhetorical onslaught you would have heard me talk at great length and with great passion about our School values. After all, they are the bedrock of our success in recent years and are woven into the very fabric of school life.

During the academic year 2015-16, we reviewed our values, mission statement and aims. The latter are printed at the back of this brochure and do not require further explanation. I will elaborate at some length on the values in my talk on open morning. Suffice to say that I am incredibly satisfied with, indeed, proud of, the outcome of that review (N.B. you will hear me use the words pride and proud a lot). All of our work is anchored in the values of Honesty, Community, Excellence, Fairness and Endeavour, and they are both a reflection of the School we are but also a vision of what we want to become. It is not by chance that Honesty precedes the others (self-knowledge and being truthful to oneself are essential starting points) and I pledge that we will always be open and honest with you, our parents and students; we see it and say it as it is. I would acknowledge that we are by no means perfect; we are on a journey and there is certainly no sense of 'arrival' (even after eight years as Headteacher). I would concur with all that is contained in the recent inspection report (the positives and the areas for improvement) but for one thing; we are an 'outstanding' school in my view. Granted, my criteria may differ somewhat.

The Wellington 'character' has come to the fore more than ever since March and I hope I have provided the essence of that here. I am saddened not to have met you all in person, I am saddened we have not had the opportunity to show off a little and I am saddened our brilliant young people have not had the chance to show just how proud they are of their School. Anyway, it can't be helped and when all said and done, I know you'll make the right secondary school choice for your child.

Enjoy your time with us.

Caring

Everyone at Wellington is proud of the positive, caring ethos which underpins the School's high standards and ambitious expectations for our students.

Students at Wellington enjoy the security of a community which is focused on preparing them for the rigours and challenges of their future while allowing them to become happy and confident learners.

We acknowledge that the move from primary to secondary school can be rather unsettling for parents and students alike and as such, do all we can to ease the way. We liaise closely with partner primaries throughout the year and the Year 7 Pastoral Manager who specialises in the transition process will have a detailed knowledge of your child before they arrive.

We offer an Induction Day when Year 6 pupils visit and work in School for a day during the summer term so that they become familiar with the site and staff before joining us. This is followed by a 'bonding day' early in the autumn term for all Year 7s. Wellington continues to develop curricular links to further facilitate the transition from Key Stage 2 – 3. Indeed, this process is enhanced by the provision of T-Buddies; existing Wellington students who are there to enable Year 7s to make the best and most confident start possible.

Throughout Years 5 and 6, we arrange day visits for partner primaries to enable pupils to sample our fabulous facilities and learn a little about life at Wellington. We also host several sporting and educational competitions for local primary schools and our Student Leaders manage the organisation of these events.

Pastoral care is outstanding at Wellington. Each year group is led by a Director of Year and a non-teaching Pastoral Manager who provide an accessible, direct and clear line of communication between home and School. Both will have a detailed knowledge of each and every individual student. The Director of Year and Pastoral Manager work together to oversee a student's academic and personal development and will closely monitor academic progress, attendance, patterns of behaviour and self-esteem. Form Tutors add another layer of security for students by working closely with each child to provide the encouragement and support needed for each individual to succeed. It is qualities such as these which have lead Ofsted to deem the well-being of children at Wellington as 'Outstanding'.

Indeed, Wellington School prides itself on having built a network of support which ensures that the needs of each individual are identified and catered for. A dedicated school nurse, a committed and talented team of Teaching Assistants, professional counsellors and a network of outside agencies are on hand to lend help and advice to both students and parents whenever necessary.

We care for our students but of course we also expect our students to care for others and to be aware of their responsibilities to society. A culture of help and respect is typified by, amongst other things, our anti-bullying ambassadors, our well-being programme, and our annual charity drives and sponsored walk which have become a part of the Timperley landscape! This commitment to the local community has not only raised over £500,000 in recent years, but also exemplified the qualities of teamwork and mutual trust demonstrated at Wellington on a daily basis.

Our determination to develop the most positive of School cultures and, more importantly, the type of young person we ideally want to send out into the world after 5 or 7 years at Wellington, has been enhanced by the 'Them and Us' programme now delivered across Key Stage 3. 'Kindness', 'Respect' and 'Causing others no harm' are, we feel, key ingredients in any School's diet.

Our responsibility to keep parents informed about the progress of their child is one we take very seriously. There is an expectation on staff to contact parents immediately and in person should the need arise. Parents regularly receive 'commitment to learning' grades and assessment scores, while Information Evenings and Parents' Evenings provide opportunities to meet staff to discuss their child's achievements. Detailed information about the School's work and activities appear daily on our website and we ask that parents subscribe to the Headteacher's blog and download our school apps. These enable parents to follow 'real-time' updates on their child's progress and homework schedule.

We are a listening school, we are an approachable school and we are a friendly school. We do not get everything right every time and we want parents to let us know whenever they feel we have fallen short. The channels of communication between home and School are clear and open and in order for the Wellington community to maintain its exceptional standards, we believe it to be essential that students, staff and parents work closely together.

Learning

Our genuinely broad and balanced curriculum is befitting of our context, our catchment and our students. It provides all children with a wide range of subject choices but we ensure that, on entry, we focus on mastering the key literacy and numeracy skills required to succeed in public examinations and to thrive in later life.

Key Stage 3

In Years 7 and 8 students will be taught in classes of mixed prior attainment, while in Year 9 preparations for GCSE and other examinations begin with students being set according to attainment. A wide range of strategies are employed to ensure that students are actively engaged in the learning process, and progress is carefully monitored through regular assessment.

In addition to the traditional 'core' (Maths, English, Science, History, Geography, PE, RE), all students study a range of subjects including Computer Science, Design and Technology and at least one Modern Foreign Language. We constantly evaluate both the appropriateness of our curriculum and the needs of our students. For example, the recent addition of Drama to the core curriculum at Key Stage 3 has proven to be such a resounding success, we have extended this provision to Key Stage 4.

Key Stage 4

In Years 10 and 11 students work towards formal accreditation at GCSE in a variety of subjects. A guided choice programme with a range of options is provided so that students make sensible, informed decisions. At Wellington we have a framework within which there is a strong focus on EBacc subjects whilst also allowing students to develop their own particular strengths. This allows for excellent standing under the government's accountability measures which require 8 good GCSEs. Again, the Key Stage 4 curriculum is constantly under review to best cater for all our learners and, consequently, we have recently added five new Level 2 qualifications to our offer with a view to meeting the needs of all our students even more effectively.

Key Stage 5

Wellington School boasts a well-established, thriving and successful Sixth Form of around 200 students. A significant number of our students stay with us from Year 7 to Year 13 in order to sit A Levels in a range of subjects. The Sixth Form not only provides a vibrant community in itself, but also adds huge value to the whole school in terms of the way in which younger students are provided with aspirational role models. In recent years, all students who have applied to University from Wellington have been awarded a place, with the vast majority securing their first choice course and destination. (Note: there is a dedicated Sixth Form prospectus and course guide available)

The level of pastoral care at Wellington is second to none. The support given to our son has been outstanding and enabled the transition from primary school to be a very smooth one.

Parent

We are delighted with Wellington. Staff are caring and approachable and any concerns are attended to. A safe environment is created where social responsibility is a focus. I would not have chosen another local school for our three young adults.

Across all Key Stages, Wellington boasts a programme of Personal, Social and Health Education which helps students to make sense of their place in the world. We also provide an unrivalled programme of Careers Guidance which begins in Year 7. Indeed, our commitment to the long term future of our students has seen Wellington achieve the prestigious Inspiring IAG Gold Award (twice!).

Teachers work hard to ensure that lessons are engaging, relevant and allow students to make rapid progress. All staff consider themselves to be life-long learners and seek to innovate and develop their practice. However, it is not simply excellent teaching and learning that enables Wellington to get the best out of its students, but an ethos of intervention and enrichment which serves to underpin the outstanding curriculum and truly cater for the uniqueness of each individual.

Our curriculum is supported by well-equipped classrooms and outstanding facilities in Sport, ICT, Technology, Science, Music and Art. Each member of staff has their own teaching room and we have a well-stocked and used Learning Resource Centre staffed by a full-time librarian. The School has ten Science Laboratories and a fleet of five mini-buses which provide student transport for many activities. Our Sports Hall, all-weather pitch, Gymnasium, playing fields and Fitness Suite are used extensively both during and after the school day.

There are nine networked computer suites which provide a focal point for learning and independent study both during and after school and our fabulous Sixth Form facilities have recently been extended and renovated. Indeed, the commitment of governors to ensure a first class learning environment has provided us with amenities which rival any in the North West.

Creating independent learners is paramount at Wellington. Students are able to manage their own learning through the use of their own student planner and ClassCharts app. and we regard homework as being vital in the development of independent learning skills. To this end, our Learning Resource Centre is staffed by teachers and Sixth Form Students each evening to facilitate the development of our students from individuals who merely attend school, to independent thinkers who are capable of driving their own improvement.

Furthermore, preparation of young people for life is surely the ultimate aim of any secondary school, and the introduction of the 'Edge' scheme in, whereby students gain accreditation for activities completed under the headings of Leadership, Organisation, Resilience, Initiative and Communication, have been a resounding success in developing one's 'character'.

Succeeding

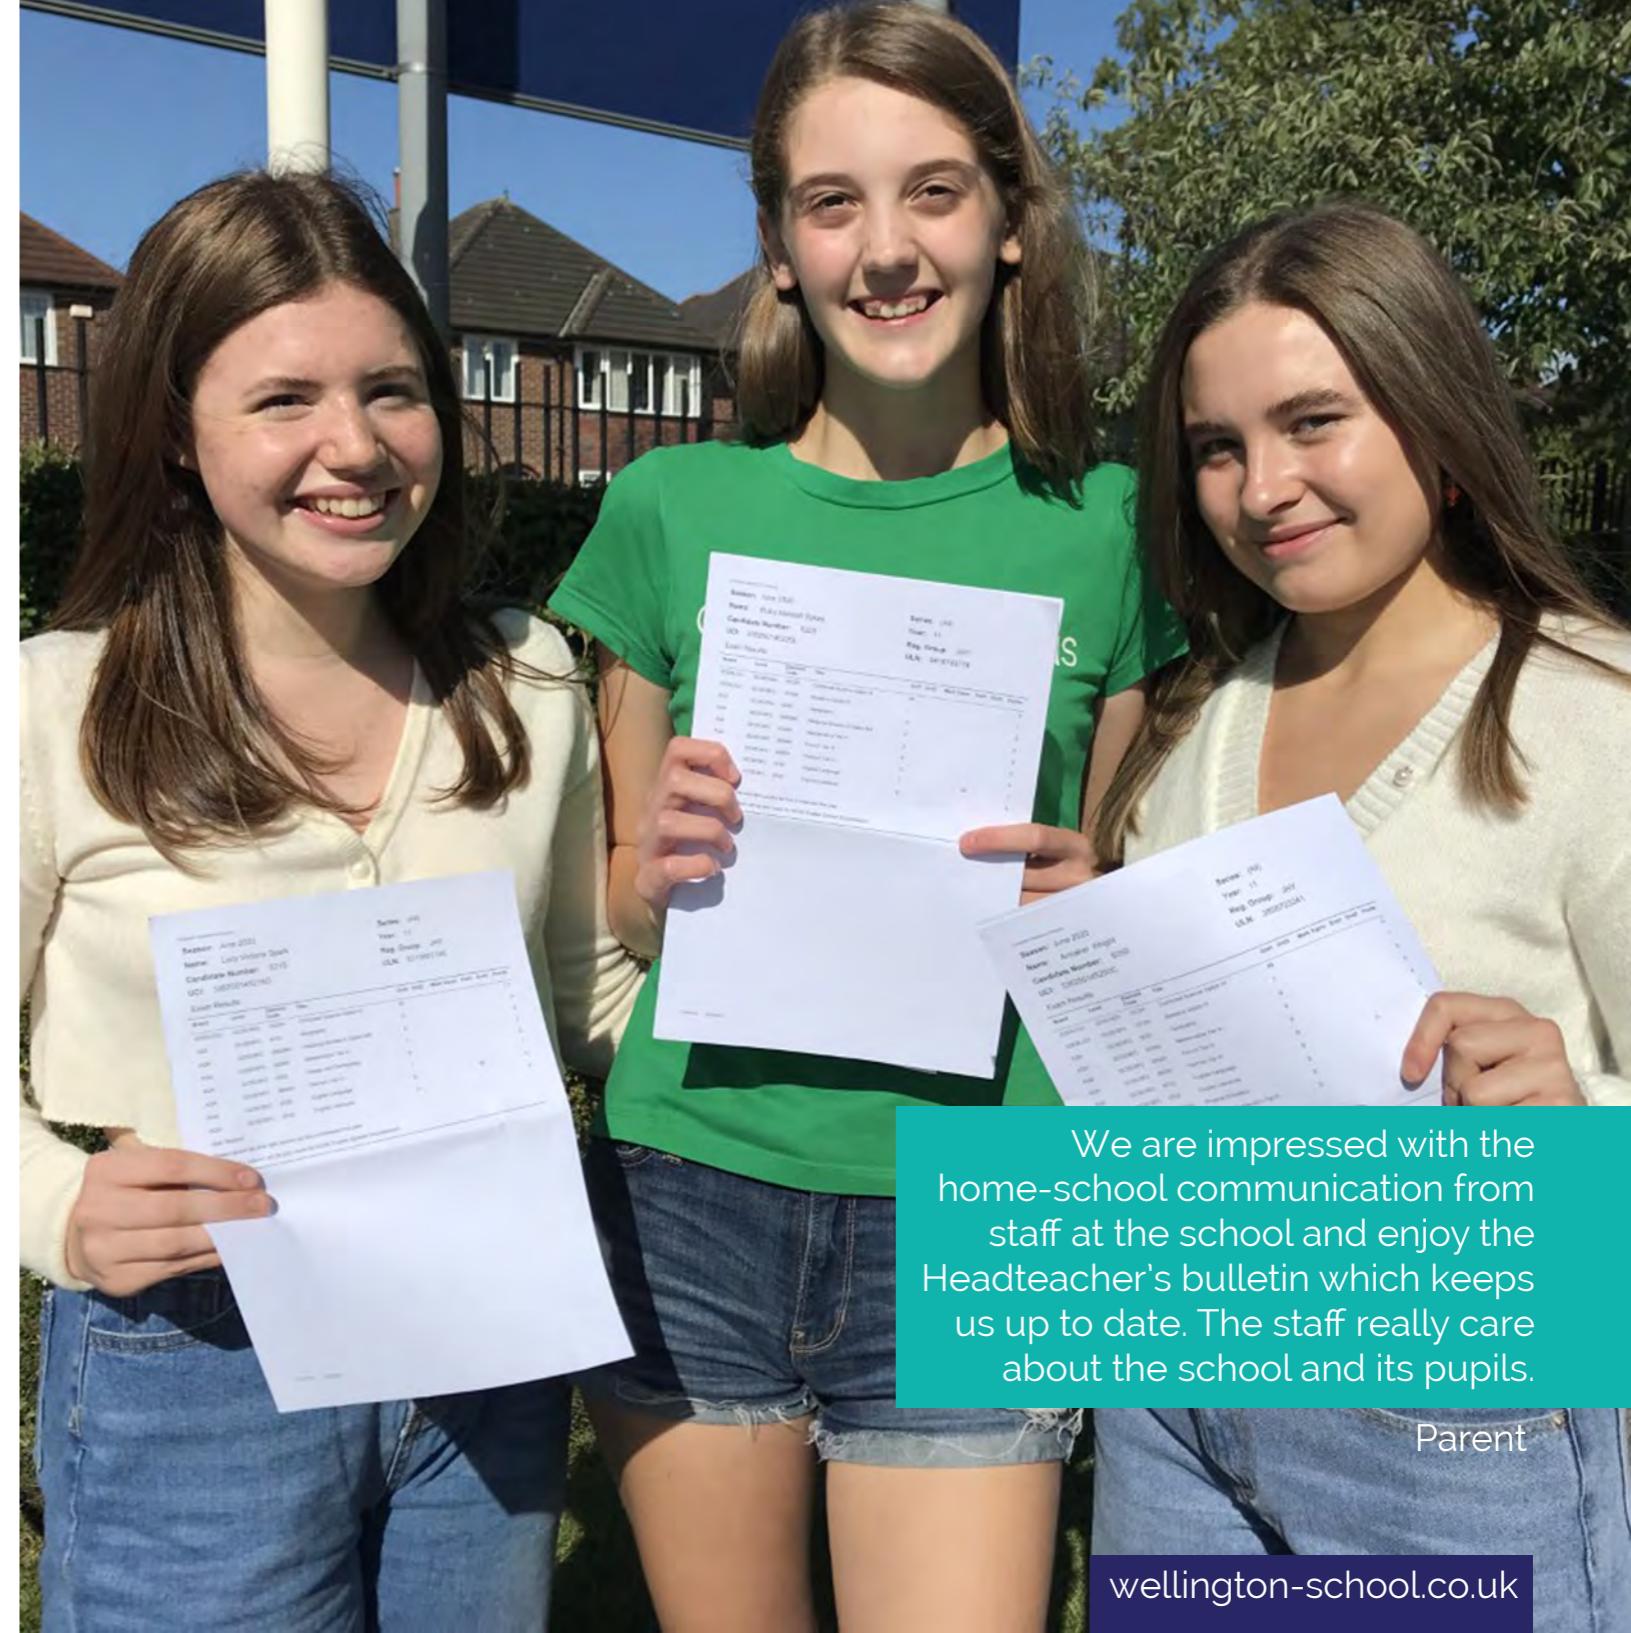

The consistent and relentless pursuit of excellence by both teachers and students, ably supported by parents, means that academic achievement is a given at Wellington School.

GCSE and A Level results, details of which are available on our website, have topped Trafford's non-selective schools in published league tables for many years. However, what sets the School apart is the way in which it ensures that achievement is not measured through academic results alone, but through all manner of students' accomplishments both in school and out in the wider community.

The key to the success of Wellington School is our insistence on the highest standards in everything we do. Perhaps the most visible illustration of this is the high standards of appearance we expect from our staff and students. We have great pride in the way our environment and students are presented and this goes a long way in promoting discipline and the reputation of the School.

Students are encouraged to take advantage of the myriad lunchtime and after-school activities on offer where all talents, tastes and abilities are catered for. Our co-curricular programme helps to improve motivation, confidence and self-esteem and ultimately enables students to become more effective learners. Indeed, high levels of extra-curricular participation at Wellington have seen us recognised nationally via the Sainsbury's School Games gold award.

Opportunities abound to unearth, harness and develop talents in Music, Art, Drama, Dance, Modern Languages, Science and Technology. Increasing the cultural capital of students is part of the 'Wellington Way' and the offerings available enable individuals to thrive, develop confidence, improve social skills and widen personal aspirations.

We are impressed with the home-school communication from staff at the school and enjoy the Headteacher's bulletin which keeps us up to date. The staff really care about the school and its pupils.
